

EDITORIAL

Who's worried now?

As the coronavirus pandemic loses steam, there seems to be a strange mismatch in risk perception, where people seem highly anxious about some risks and quite blasé about others. For instance, look at the supposed spectre of inflation now constantly raised by commentators...

Featured stories from the July 2021 issue of Asia Asset Management

- A perfect storm
- Falling short
- For energy, clean is in
- Challenging times ahead
- The rise of passives
- Hard lessons
- Millennials, digital pave the way
- Coming of age
- Turning the screws
- Low rates turbocharge hunt for yield
- The rich grow richer

Latest News

Korea's KIC puts greater emphasis on ESG since Covid-19

| 30 June 2021

Environmental: KIC has conducted ESG assessment on 42 bond, equities and alternative asset managers and investment projects since 2020

Singapore's CapitaLand sells China property stakes to Ping An for 46.7 billion RMB

| 30 June 2021

Market Access: CapitaLand has built up a S$24 billion investment property pipeline in China

Malaysia's EPF launches new early withdrawal scheme amid latest wave of Covid-19

| 30 June 2021

Pensions: EPF says the programme was developed "after careful consideration on how best to assist affected members"

Analysis: Vanguard or laggard?

| 30 June 2021

Analysis: IEEFA report slams Vanguard for alleged faults and shortcomings on climate change policies

25+
AAM

AAM's 25+ Special Anniversary Edition

December 2021

Given the tremendous progress of Asia's asset management and pensions industry in the past 25 years, Asia Asset Management will be retrospectively addressing the key reforms that have shaped the sectors for this special edition.

From the current base of development and progress of the pensions and asset management industry, AAM's special edition will also feature interviews with thought leaders to establish the main themes and trends that will shape the pension and fund markets in years to come.

For marketing and sponsorship opportunities, please write to Veronica@asiaasset.com

Asia Asset Management
The Journal of Investments & Pensions
July 2021

Asia looks to ESG

Sustainability is a rising theme in index investing

Lessons from a pandemic
Slovak market falls short of potential
Indonesia fund managers pin hopes on millennials
Challenging times for Asian bonds
The future is about clean energy